Contus Support launched HD FLV Player

Watching choicy videos online has become very easy. If you want to see a video of your choice, all you have to do is google the name of it and you will be able to view that particular video from a host of websites.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PRLog (Press Release) - Jul. 21, 2009 - Contus Support into development of software by launching their first software product named HD FLV player.

It is interesting to note that one of the known names in Indian BPO, Contus Support, is into development. This is a web based FLV player or a high definition FLV player.

On contacting the company sources about the product, they informed that their product is designed with many features and functionalities that are not found in other FLV players. Only a handful of companies are into developing HD FLV player, and Contus Support is one among them.

On testing the HD FLV player developed by Contus, the player was found to be with good video and audio quality, and moreover it is user friendly. Even though the technology used in it is sophisticated, it is not complicated to use, but simple and easy. The development team stated that they have many products under their sleeve in development stage.
